

Under the Agriculture Committee's 2001 bill, emergency supplemental payments will be concentrated among 20 congressional districts that already receive most of the "Freedom to Farm" payments...

Allocating payments according to the value of agricultural production would dramatically expand the distribution of farm assistance. Some 344 congressional districts would receive more funds under such a valuation formula for farm aid.

